Mrs. Jane Sadler, relict of the late David Sadler, died at the home of her son-in-law, Capt. J. A. Gray, three miles south of this city, last Monday morning, at the ripe old age of 86 years. Mr. Sadler was the eldest daughter of the late Andy McLees, and was born and reared and spent her life in this County. In her girlhood she joined the Presbyterian Church and throughout her long life was a most devoted and consistent member. She was known and greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends, who will ever cherish her memory. She was ever ready to assist the poor and needy, and to speak a comforting word to the distressed. In fact, her life was full of noble deeds, and she has now gone to reap her rewards. Two children, Mr. A. S. Sadler, of Williamston, and Mrs. J. A. Gray, survive her. Mrs. Susan M. Wier, of Greenville, died at the home of her youngest son, Joel C. Wier, at Ninety Six, last Thursday morning, to whom she was on a visit when she was stricken with paralysis several weeks ago. This was the second stroke, she having had a light stroke while on a visit to Anderson last summer. Mrs. Wier was a native of this city, a daughter of John B. Benson, deceased, who made famous the old hostelry known as the "Benson House." In early womanhood she married the late John A. Wier, of Abbeville, where she lived until a few years ago when she moved to Greenville. She had long been a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church, and was a most noble woman, whose memory will long be cherished by a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Nannie White. Her only surviving brother, Dr. Sloan Benson, lives in Abbeville. Four children—two sons and two daughters—survive her. She was 67 years old. The remains of the deceased were carried to Abbeville and interred by the side of her husband.

The Laurens Advertiser of the 22nd ult. says: One of the most cultivated and appreciative audiences which has ever assembled in Laurens gathered at the Opera House Saturday evening, knowing by past experience that a concert given under the directorship of Mrs. W. E. Lucas would be an occasion of the most perfect enjoyment. Mrs. Lucas was assisted by Mrs. Cora Ligon, of Anderson, and Miss Thompson, of Converse College. The first number on the well selected programme was an Impromptu, by Schubert, rendered by Mrs. Lucas; the second, Masseroni's "For All Eternity," sung by Mrs. Ligon with all of the power and pathos of her wonderful voice. Mrs. Ligon is not only a tour but an artist, having studied in Boston and New York, and under the great Marchesi in Paris, and throughout the evening she held her audience enthralled by the sympathy and expression which she imparted to everything she sang. Her beautiful rendering of songs in Italian and of a sprightly little French air, by DeMusset, made a charming impression, while "The Crocodile Love Song" and "The Last Rose of Summer" as its encore closed the programme most effectively, but also most regretfully, to her audience.

Obituary.

Died, at the home of Mr. J. W. Erskine, Jr., Feb. 21st, 1898, Mrs. Elizabeth (famously known as "aunt Betsey") Erskine, relict of the late Thomas Erskine. Having been born in 1807, she was at the time of her death in the ninety-first year of her age. Two sons and five daughters survive her; those with a large number of other relatives and friends mourn her death, but they sorrow not as those who have no hope. Mrs. Erskine was the greater part of her long life a member of the Presbyterian Church, holding her membership first with the old Broadway Church, and after its removal to Boston, subsequently with the Church at that place. She was a humble disciple of the Master, and has gone to her reward. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their work do follow them." M.
